Ultra B Complex

New Roots B Complex is a very effective product for solving a very difficult problem which is the absorption of B vitamins. If required by a condition, it is often very therapeutic to use high amounts of B vitamins. Yet, many people with chronic conditions simply can't convert the raw form of B's to the active form.

New Roots B Complex contains the bioactive forms of B-vitamins in a balanced blend unlike most B-complex products. We provide the ready-to-use, active forms needed by your body. Most B-vitamin supplements contain only the inactive forms, so they are not readily absorbed or utilized and, instead, are quickly eliminated from your body-making them not only ineffective but very expensive.

In addition, the inactive form is difficult to process for many with chronic health issues because it requires the liver to work overtime to convert them to the active form just to be absorbed. With New Roots, the work of conversion is already done for you and your body gets the vitamins it needs in the form it can instantly use.

Vitamin E⁸

Vitamin E is comprised of two groups of molecules, tocopherols and tocotrienols, each with four forms (alpha-, beta-, gamma-, and delta-tocopherol, and alpha-, beta-, gamma- and delta-tocotrienol). Most importantly, new research is showing that tocotrienols which contain all of these (alpha, beta, delta, and gamma), protect against the risk of breast cancer by as much as 90 percent. New Roots Tocotrienols also contain phytosterols, that has cholesterol-lowering activity and breast, colon, prostate and protective activity. When combined with tocotrienols, it makes a winning combination that protects against cholesterol and breast cancer.

Green Tea with a Punch!

Can EGCG 70% & Polyphenols 99%

EGCG 70% and Polyphenols 99% is the most potent affordable extract of green tea. Research shows that the potent antioxidant EGCG supports the body's natural resistance to cancer of the bladder, breast, colon, esophagus, lung, pancreas, prostate, skin and stomach. EGCG is also beneficial for heart and circulatory health and other research indicates that EGCG may benefit joint health and bowel resistance to inflammation due to its anti-inflammatory characteristics, and assists in weight loss since studies indicate that it may increase metabolic rate without side effects. Recent studies on green tea extract have yielded impressive results, identifying the polyphenol (-)-epigallocatechin gallate (EGCG) as the responsible component able to force certain cancer into cellular suicide, an action called "apoptosis". Further evidence shows EGCG as having an inhibitory effect on the enzyme, urokinase, which is required for tumor formation, thus preventing the formation of tumors in the first place. Can-EGCG is designed for the prevention of cancers. It is composed primarily of green tea 70% EGCG and Polyphenols 99% a synergy of antioxidants for the ultimate in cancer protection.

Anti-Inflamma

New Roots has developed a natural product that selectively blocks the enzyme COX-2 (cyclooxygenase-2). Blocking this enzyme impedes the production of the chemical messengers called prostaglandins that cause the pain and swelling of arthritis inflammation.

Chemotherapy is an excruciating systemic therapy; this means it affects the whole body by traveling through the bloodstream. A recent study found that COX-2 levels were directly associated with levels of a growth factor that promotes the development of new blood vessels, a process called angiogenesis. In the cells missing the COX-2 gene, vascular endothelial growth factor levels (tumor growth) were substantially lower; with an active COX-2 gene, VEGF levels dropped after treatment with COX-2 inhibitors.

Anti-Inflamma contains:

Boswellic acid 70%200mg
Curcumin 95%200mg
Bromelaine 2400 GDU100mg
Quercitin dehydrate 98%100mg

Curry with tea that cures!

Although best known as a spice that gives curry powder its taste, turmeric (Curcuma longa) is a member of the ginger family that has long been used for healing.

As an antioxidant, curcumin 95% inhibits damage to cells and thus helps to prevent certain types of cancer. In laboratory and small animal studies, curcumin has been found to hinder the growth of errant cells associated with cancer of the breast, skin, and colon, as well as lymphoma. Curcumin also significantly lowers levels of mutagens, substances that can increase cancer-causing cell mutations.

A recent study conducted at University of Laval shows the anticarcinogenic activity of tea polyphenols, curcumin and EGCG anticarcinogenic activity and their proposed mechanism(s) of action. When combined, the anti carcinogenic activity increased 2000 fold in vitro. Combined, curcumin and green tea enhance glutathione content and glutathione-S-transferase activity in liver; inhibit lipid peroxidation and arachidonic acid metabolism, and inhibit chemically induced cancer in the lung, liver, skin and esophagus of rodents.

Several mechanisms appear to be responsible for the tumor-inhibitory properties of these polyphenols, including enhancement of the antioxidants glutathione peroxidase, catalase and quinone reductase) and phase II (glutathione-S-transferase) enzyme activities; inhibition of chemically induced lipid peroxidation; inhibition of irradiation and TPA-induced epidermal ornithine decarboxylase (ODC) and cyclooxygenase activities; inhibition of protein kinase C and cellular proliferation; anti-inflammatory activity; and enhancement of gap junction intercellular communication.
